

AAI Report

History, based on information in the AAI

The AAI Discourse

Self-protective strategy (written out descriptively in ordinary words):

Outstanding characteristics of the discourse in the AAI

1. Introducing the family:
2. First memory:
3. Relationship with mother:
Five words to describe the relationship and illustrative episodes:
 - a. ??:
 - b. ??:
 - c. ??:
 - d. ??:
 - e. ??:
4. Relationship with father:
Five words to describe the relationship and illustrative episodes:
 - a. ??:
 - b. ??:
 - c. ??:
 - d. ??:
 - e. ??:
5. Other topics:

Unresolved loss and trauma:

Reflective integration:

Reorganization

Depression

Intrusions

Disorientation

Summary

An AAI yields 6 types of information:

1. A self- and progeny-protective attachment strategy, i.e., the way the speaker uses information to organize their behavior when they feel endangered or believe their children to be endangered:
2. A possible set of unresolved traumatic experiences that distort the person's behavior without their being aware of it (if present):.

3. An over-riding distortion of the strategy (if present):
4. A pattern of information processing
5. An interpreted developmental history of the speaker:
6. Level of Parental Reasoning:

Strengths

Limitations

Questions